VERSION 2 · UPDATED WITH YOUR FEEDBACK

Prepared for Architect Ayush, AG Archviz Studio

WHAT CHANGED

Your feedback, point by point

Hi Ayush ji,

Thank you for the detailed voice notes. You were right: the first version drifted away from the pitch you wanted. So we went back to the reference video and rebuilt the script on its flow, kept what already works in it, and cleaned up the wording. Here is every point you raised and what we did with it.

	YOU SAID	WHAT WE DID
1	Follow the reference video's pitch, just more refined. Don't improvise a new one.	The script now follows the reference beat by beat: your job, what you actually end up doing, the usual excuses, what smart architects do, the brief, the services, the benefits and the call to action.
2	It's architects and interior designers, not only architects.	The very first words now speak to both.
3	Remove the "hidden team" opening. Big firms already have teams.	Removed, along with the "hidden team" line at the end.
4	Remove "busy studios don't do it in-house". Most firms do 3D in-house.	Removed. Instead we compare: with an in-house team, one person takes leave or quits and the work stops. With you, it doesn't.
5	Focus on the problem in the market, then how we solve it.	Parts 1 and 2 are now only the problem. The studio comes in after that.
6	"You win the project, then disappear into it" sounds low-level.	Replaced with the reference's own lines: doing the 3D yourself, staying up to finish drawings.
7	"That's where AG Archviz Studio comes in. Meet Architect Ayush, founder."	Added in exactly that order.
8	Architects and interior designers, not "architect and engineer".	Now reads "run by architects and interior designers".
9	Remove "No salaries".	Removed. It's now "No hiring. No training. No chasing staff."
10	Change "start with one project" to "share details of your first project".	Done, in your words.
11	Don't repeat the brand name in the call to action. "Message us today."	The last line is now "Tap the button below and message us today."
12	The voices weren't exciting enough. Send more options.	Six new, more energetic American voices on the last page.

THE SCRIPT · VERSION 2

Voiceover

About 1 min 20 sec (the reference runs 1 min 22) · ~220 words · 9:16 motion graphics. Every new line is a short pause for the voice artist, and words in bold get a little extra weight.

01

AWARENESS

0:00 – 0:14

Architects and interior designers, your job is to win new projects, handle clients and run sites.
But what are you actually doing?
Doing the 3D yourself.
Staying up all night to finish drawings, just to keep the site moving.

> From the reference. Same opening idea: what your job should be, and what you're actually stuck doing. It now calls out architects and interior designers in the first two seconds.

02

VALUABLE INFORMATION

0:14 – 0:33

And the reasons are always the same.
No planning staff. Your 3D artist quit.
A client kept you stuck in material selections.
The new team is still in training.
That's the problem with keeping it all in-house.
One person takes leave, and the whole studio slows down.

> From the reference, plus your comparison. The excuse list is the reference's, almost word for word. The last two lines are the in-house comparison you asked for.

03

PROBLEM SOLVING

0:33 – 1:12

But all of this can actually be solved. How?
Smart architects hand their entire design and drawing workload to a back-end team.
That's where AG Archviz Studio comes in.
Meet Architect Ayush, its founder, and his team. Your new back-end design team.
Share your project brief. We handle the rest.
3D modeling and rendering. Layout planning and drafting.
Structural and working drawings, for architecture and interior projects.
Run by architects and interior designers, so your drawings don't just look good on screen. They work on site.

No hiring. No training. No chasing staff.
Just on-time delivery, while you focus on winning clients.

> From the reference, plus your notes. The "smart architects" turn and the services list come from the reference. The studio and your name come in the order you suggested.

04

PROMOTION

1:12 – 1:20

Want to deliver on time, without the extra load?
Share the details of your first project and see how easy it feels.
Tap the button below and message us today.

> Your wording. The ask is to share the first project's details, and the studio name isn't repeated here.

ELEVENLABS · AMERICAN ACCENT

Six new voice options

You felt the last four were a bit flat, so this time we picked voices with more energy, while still keeping them professional enough for architects. Click "Hear sample" to listen. These are each voice's own demo, not our script.

Ray D

OUR PICK

Male · "Ray D - Adult Male Energetic and Engaging American"

Energetic and engaging, but still sounds trustworthy. Made for sales and explainer videos, so he can carry both the opening and the services part.

Hear sample

ID z3FNMrCvtM1IHj84qvbr

Jackson

MALE

"Jackson - American Tech Sales Rep"

Lively, with a sales edge. He's good at explaining technical things, which suits the list of services.

Hear sample

ID 2zGvynULFssveGrcP8hi

Parker

MALE

"Parker Springfield - Professional Broadcaster"

Bright, polished broadcaster sound. Upbeat and confident, like a TV or radio spot.

Hear sample

ID Dnd9VXpAjEGXiRGBf1O6

Christopher

MALE

"Christopher Smooth"

Deep and smooth with a proper promo feel. More punch than the calmer voices from last time.

Hear sample

Sia

FEMALE

"Sia - Energetic, Confident and Commercial"

Energetic and confident, natural rather than salesy. Grabs attention fast.

Hear sample

Rachelle

FEMALE

"Rachelle – TV & Radio Commercials"

Built for commercials. High energy and modern, and very clear on short lines like the call to action.
